'Lauren has gone above and beyond and even took the role of directly communicating with the clients to make sure that the case was ready for trial on 19th January when I wasn't available due to Tribunal work. The service Lauren has provided to the clients has been excellent and they are extremely happy that Lauren continues to represent them.

This case is very complex and when technical issues crop up that is beyond my expertise, Lauren is very quick to offer her advice when I reach out to her.' Alice Damoa, Paralegal, London Borough of Hackney (2024)

Prior to commencing pupillage, Lauren was a paralegal at several leading family law firms working on a breadth of family cases. Lauren has experience in both public and private children proceedings, international children law including abduction and divorce and finance.

Lauren has also written several articles for various publications including Family Law Week, Jordans, Relocate Magazine and the International Family Law Journal.

During her studies Lauren volunteered with the Free Representation Unit, representing clients in the employment tribunal and whilst at university was a student leader of her university's Pro Bono Unit.
