About

Jacqui Gilliatt, our Deputy Head of Chambers, is a seasoned family law barrister with over 30 years of experience. Her specialisation in children's cases, including disputes involving parents, family members, and social services, is well-known. What sets Jacqui apart is her willingness to roll her sleeves up and step into the shoes of her clients and her readiness to accept direct access instructions. This empowers clients to engage directly with her.

Practice overview

Jacqui's extensive practice encompasses a wide range of complex and sensitive areas, including:

- Baby shaking cases
- Child abduction (including from local authority care)
- Complex or conflicting medical evidence
- Disability and education law
- Disputes involving same-sex couples
- Domestic violence
- Fabricated allegations
- Forced marriage and 'honour' violence
- Human rights and human trafficking
- Incest and international law
- Intractable contact/residence disputes
- Mental health and non-accidental injuries
- Cases involving the Official Solicitor
- Parallel criminal proceedings and parental alienation
- Placement outside the jurisdiction
- Sexual abuse, substance misuse, and addiction
- Sudden infant death and unexplained deaths
- Transgender issues

Jacqui's expertise allows her to handle highly sensitive and legally complex cases with skill and dedication.

Jacqui regularly presents seminars on family law topics.

Recent seminar topics include:

- Ethics Panel Event: Navigating Ethical Dilemmas and Tricky Customers
- Transparency in the Family Court & the Pilot Scheme
- Updates and Tips on Special Guardianship and Adoption

Client Testimonials

'I have instructed Jacqui in Public Law Children Act proceedings for around 20 years. Two recent examples are a shaking baby case and a complex care case for a vulnerable special guardian – both of which had very successful outcomes.

Jacqui's qualities are careful preparation, knowledge of the facts and law, clarity of presentation, robustness, persuasiveness, dedication and particularly importantly, empathy for her lay clients.' Maurice Guyer, Consultant Solicitor, 2024

'I have high regard for Miss Gilliatt's work ethic and professionalism and only have words of praise for her and it has been an absolutely successful working relationship. Her preparation of the case has been excellent. Miss Gilliatt has worked with passion and fantastic attention to detail. She has fully engaged with me as a litigant in person which has allowed her to have a comprehensive insight around all matters as well as guaranteed we established a trusting and efficient working relationship. The Judge expressed praise for her providing clarity and order to the vast amount of evidence arising from the previous cases and background of our family.' Direct Access Client

Publications

Jacqui Gilliatt: Adoption & Special Guardianship Part 2 | 01st Jun 2024

The second of a two part article in the Family Law Journal (Lexis). Part 2 examines some interesting recent case law, including on leave to revoke placement orders/oppose adoption orders where the two types of placement – adoption or special guardianship – have gone head-to-head and, in passing at least, involved consideration of foster care.

Jacqui Gilliatt – Family Law Journal – Adoption & Special Guardianship Part 1 | 01st May 2024

The first of a two-part article in the Family Law Journal provides a very brief history of adoption and special guardianship, an overview of current policy developments, proposals for future reform, a statistical overview, a summary of some recent research, some comparisons between the two placements, orders and (to a lesser extent with long-term foster care) contact. Part 2 will examine some interesting recent case law, including on leave to revoke placement orders/oppose adoption orders where the two types of placement – adoption or special guardianship – have gone head-to-head and, in passing at least, involved consideration of foster care.
